Evaluation of NACBO

Hi, my name is Sandra Gendera.

I am a researcher. My job is to find out things.

I do this by looking, talking and writing things down.

NACBO are funded by the Department of Social Services to reach out to people with disability and their family and friends.

NACBO support people and their family to identify and realise their goals and lead valued and inclusive lives.

I want to find out if the information and support given to people through NACBO is good or bad so we can make it better.

Another word for it, is doing an evaluation.

This study is funded by NACBO through funding from the Department of Social Services.

The research team doing this study are:

- Sally Robinson
- Michelle Bellon
- Karen Fisher
- Sandra Gendera
- Megan Blaxland

What does taking part involve?

Taking part involves filling in some questions online.

We will ask you about what activities, groups and information you have received through NACBO, and what difference these made on your life.

You can choose which questions to answer. You can skip if you don't want to answer a question.

It will take about 10 minutes to complete the questions.

Do I have to take part?

You only have to take part if you want to.

You can say No. It's your choice.

If you say no, then no one will be angry and the support you get will not change.

We will keep your information private.

We will not tell anybody your name or where you live.

No one will know it was you who took part.

If you want to take part in this project

If you want to take part, click on the survey link on the front page to start answering questions.

If you change your mind, you can close the page at any time, and we will not collect more information about you.

Thank you,

Sandra Gendera and the other researchers

People to talk to about the research

You can use the phone numbers and email addresses to ask people or complain about what I am doing.

If you have questions about the research, you can talk to Karen Fisher at the University of New South Wales at:
